How Other States Aid Private Schools

If Illinois passes legislation which will give approximately 32,000,000 in aid to nonsubilic schools, it will be the nost expensive such programurrently io the nation.

But state aid to non-public chools is nothing new.

Here's a round-up of what other state are already doing.

Bus transporation to non-public school students: Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Kansen, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wiscomio. These policies vary from

IN NEW JERSEY, for example, non-public students get free bus service to their schools-but only if the distance e is not less than two miles, and not more than 20 miles, and the cost is under $150 per pupil.

In Ohio, the state may pay the parent or guardian of the percehial school pupits in lieu of providing transportation, and the child must not have more than 30 minutes travel time.

Kentucky provides bus service for parochial students, but doesn't use public school funds. Kentucky law permits the fiscal court to appropriate money for this from its general fund.

IN NEW MEXICO, any additional cost for bus service to parochial students must be paid by the county commissioners in the county in which the school is located.

In Louisiana, money for the bus service comes from the state general fund, the state sales-ta x refund, and the state property ta x.

The following states do provide bus transportation for non-public students, but have greatly restricted conditions under which children may qualify:

Netzon V. Connecticut, Maine, Maryland, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Vermont.

In Maine, for example, voters in school districts may approve transportation for church-related schools by local referendum, but state aid is not used to pay the cost.

Other forms of aid to parochial students vary.

IN HAWAII, non-public schools have use of cur-riculum materials. In Louisiana, they get textbooks, library books,

Would Tie Conventions to Primaries

Rap. Robert S. Juckett (R 4th) has introduced a hill bind-ing presidential convention delegates to vote according to the vote in the party primary. The present Illinois primary is nerely advisory. Results are not binding on delegates.

JUCKETT'S BILL, provides that on the first roll call at either party's national nominating convention, delegates at large must vote for the candidate of their par-ty receiving the highest number of primary votes in the state.

A delegate elected from congrassional districts would have to vote for the candidate receiving the highest number of primary votes in his district, under Juckett's bill.

"The delegates, of course will still be able to use the own judgment after tha fir ballot, as they should, Juckett stated."

Mr. Muleh is at his best when he's covering the desired area from one to twn inches deep.
